

April 30-May 2 2018
Washington, D.C.

Everything You Need to Know About the $5 Billion Increase in the U.S. Intelligence Budget for FY 2018

The United States intelligence budget comprises all the funding for the agencies of the United States Intelligence Community. This infographic details where the requested $5 billion increase in funding has been allocated. The Trump administration requested $57.7 billion for the National Intelligence Program (NIP), an increase from a requested $54.9 billion in FY 2017. The Administration additionally requested $20.7 billion for the Military Intelligence Program (MIP), up from a requested $18.5 billion in FY 2017. No other MIP budget figures or program details will be released, as they are classified for national security reasons.

BOTH NIP AND MIP

Interested in learning about the Intelligence Analytics Summit?

Analytics brings together thought leaders to discuss overcoming challenges in the intelligence community and the direction forward.

At our 2017 summit we learned from the U.S. Air Force, FBI, NGA, DHS, ODNI (to name a few) how streamlining analytics and integrating systems will enhance the capabilities to process, exploit and disseminate information. Key themes running throughout our 2018 summit will include adopting real time analytics, leveraging social media and open source intelligence to support field operations and increasing the use of artificial intelligence and automation to increase productivity.

VIEW THE AGENDA